Florida Garners Millions From Its Agricultural Crops

Convention Texts Planned To Assist New Farm Work

Sarasota Will Entertain Convention of Florida Vegetable & Fruit Association

How can the Florida fruit grower make greater profits and produce finer products to sell at lower costs?

A concerted effort will be made to answer that question at the sixth annual convention of members and associates of the Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association, meeting in Lakeland, Aug. 14-16.

To LaMonte Grav, manager,

To discuss such varied topics as foreign competition, labor legislation, packing and promotion, with a view to mutual understanding and assistance, several hundred growers and shippers will converge on Sarasota, the 1949 convention site.

The boy has never recovered full consciousness since the accident, is sedated, and is kept under an oxygen tent, but according to the medical attendants continues to hold his own.

A distinguishing feature of the convention will be a lack of prepared speeches. Instead, each speaker will be given a few minutes to talk on his subject with others of the commodity in which they are most interested, except when a point of particular interest to the entire membership.

For instance, when the bean growers are in session, the potato growers will be discussing their problems in connection with their production of the commodity.

While the names of the two sides of business, including the election of officers for the 1949-50 season, the lighter side will not be neglected by the convention, the vote will be held.

A general get-together tour of exhibits is planned for the convention, including a visit to Poinsettia Park, GMC trucks and tractors, and the Case line of farm implements, one of the most complete lines of parts to be found in the country.

About Infantile Paralysis

When Polio Visits Your Area—don't be paniced.

Observe these precautions:

Avoid crowds and new associates, especially in close daily living.

Guard over fatigue. Exhaustive play or work, or continued activity when feeling ill, may invite a more serious form of the disease.

Avoid chilling. Don't swim in chilled water when overheated.

Take off wet clothes, shoes and socks before entering the mouth.

Clean hands after going to the toilet and before eating.

Avoid using another's pencil, handkerchief or utensils or food touched by soiled hands.

Keep food clean. Scientific investigation shows that fruits, vegetables, meat and dairy foods do not cause infantile paralysis.

QUICK ACTION MAY MINIMIZE CRIPPLING

Call your doctor at once if you see symptoms of headache, nausea, upset stomach, muscle soreness or stiffness, or unexplained fever.

Take his advice if he orders hospital care, early diagnosis and prompt treatment are important and may minimize crippling.

Consult your Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis for information Chapter 172 So. Ocean Boulevard, Palm Beach, is prepared to pay for that part of the cost of care and treatment that you cannot meet, including transportation, aftercare and such aids as wheelchairs, braces and other orthopedic equipment. This service is made possible by the March of Dimes.

REMEMBER, FACTS FIGHT FEARS

Half or more of those having the disease show no after-effects; another fourth recover with very slight crippling. Don't let your anxiety or fear reach such heights. A happy state of mind helps to make a full recovery, and your confidence will make things easier for you and for others.

Main犯徒 To Escape Work In Hot Sun

Some eight or ten years ago, a man held up the Indian store stockade of the State Highway Department, sprung a new wrinkle to free themselves of the heat. They had taken off their shirts and worked their bodies by the heel tendons. At that time, this action, caused quite a furor over the state. However, the same day, the man repaid several of the other stockade men over the state since that time.

The latest break-out of this type came at the Indian store, just as the men were working with knives severing the heel tendons. All were treated at the Pahokee Hospital, later to be returned to the state prison. It was explained that they could no longer endure the long day's work in the hot sun and took this means to evade work.

THE PRICE OF INDIFFERENCE

An executive of one of the nation's metal chain systems recently wrote a letter to the head of a New York investment firm in which he used some pretty plain language about many big city financial institutions. He said: "Bankers, brokers and life insurance men are apparently unaware about what is going on in this country ... they take no action in the fight against the hoodlums who are undermining our economy and our government. Local bankers are an exception. At the grass roots level they are actively and militantly fighting the weakening and subversive influence which threatens us all - saving us freedom. What is bad for manufacturing or retail trade is bad for Wall Street."

He then went on to speak of specific legislative proposals which present a clear danger to traditional American concepts and institutions, and which are weakening the nation's financial foundation. Among them the drive for credits-to-the-government security, socialist measures, unbridled inflationism, and schemes for raising the minimum wage to a high level that new and strong inflationary pressures would undoubtedly attack the whole economy.

Nations are subjected to dictators because of the indifference of their leaders and citizens. They are the reason that it's up to the other fellow to take care of himself. What is forgotten is that regimentation never comes in one piece - it is gradually built up over a period of time. Then they awaken one morning to find that liberty is dead, and there's nothing that can be done about it except of revolution.

It's happening abroad. It must not happen here.

New Dingle Bill Will Assist Fish and Game Hunting In Florida

The National Congress has legislation before it which, if passed, will do away with the Dingle Bill, which relates to the licensing of wild and migratory bird hunting, and sports dealers and sportsmen are among its strongest supporters.

This bill will double the price of "duck stamps," which funds are distributed among the states for game bird propagation and protection. The bill also will allocate the present 10 percent tax which is assessed on all fishing tackleware for use of states to improve fishing and fish raising plants.

A fish restoration program will be started in Florida, comprising the plan carried on under the Pinman-Robertson act, for the protection and propagation of wild life.

The Federal Government has purchased 25 additional acres of land for breeding grounds for migratory bird breeding, which when planted with sufficient stock, will later be opened to public hunting periods, and annual surveys or operations will not be affected by the new provisions of the Dingle Bill.

The Federal Wild Life Game committee, however, yet failed to establish the date of the open hunting of duck and other wild life migratory birds, which Florida sportsmen get so much pleasure each November and December.

Couldn't ask for a better hunting companion, though. We trim each other's hair whenever the dog has a hump. I blast away while Specs just watches.
